MARRIES

Nurse Who Attended Him In A Sanitarium

(Newark Advocate)

Count one for Dan Cupid. That little love god, who oftentimes works in a peculiar manner, scored again yesterday, when Charles Clay and Mrs. Daisy Black were married.

Theirs is a real love match and it all came about through a cutting affair that took Clay to the sanitarium. During the summer Clay went into Joe Ami's little grocery one afternoon and after an altercation the men came to blows.

Grabbing up a big cheese knife Ami rushed at Clay and stabbed him in the abdomen, inflicting a horrible wound. Clay was rushed to the sanitarium and for weeks he lay in that hospital and was cared for by Mrs. Black, a nurse of that institution.

Clay possessed iron nerve and a splendid constitution and through a skillful operation performed by Dr. C. F. Leggee, and tender nursing, he gradually recovered. He was a model patient, and Mrs. Black a tender nurse and a vigorous three-cornered fight against death was waged, and the three were victorious.

Day after day the injured man lay in his bed and watched his nurse, who anticipated his every want, and gradually D. Cupid made his presence felt and the love between the nurse and the patient grew.

They weren't a bit superstitious and Friday they visited the court house and the license was secured. Last night they were married and their little romance came to a happy ending.

BUGGY

Struck By Street Car But Motorman Averted Accident

A disastrous accident was narrowly averted at the corner of South Main and Vine streets on Saturday evening at about five o'clock when a south bound street car struck a buggy in which a woman was riding. The street car crowded and Motorman Shellenbarger was running the car exceptionally slow at the time of the accident and this fact alone was all that saved the woman in the buggy from possibly serious injury. A hay and grain delivery wagon was passing the buggy and had crowded the latter over on the east rail of the street car track in such a manner that the front end of the car struck the left back wheel of the vehicle. By quick presence of mind of Motorman Shellenbarger the car was brought to a stop before it had traveled more than a yard after striking the buggy wheel.

SUPPOSED CORPSE REVIVES IN UNDERTAKING PARLOR

Montpelier, Nov. 7 — Elias Woods, formerly a worker in the steel mill, was picked up for dead at the Wilhelm Smith home in this city today and hauled to the Warfield undertaking establishment in an ambulance.

Shortly before preparations for embalming the body were completed faint signs of life were detected and a physician's service instead of those of an undertaker were found to be necessary.

The case is one of the most unusual in the history of Montpelier and much excitement was caused by the discovery that Woods was not dead after the supposed corpse had been taken to the undertaking establishment.

Last winter Woods while working at the steel mill was badly burned on the leg. The wound never healed properly and a running sore has been bothering him since that time. Saturday Woods was employed at the Smith home to cut some wood that it is supposed that a stick of wood struck him on the leg bursting the sore and perhaps severing a blood vessel.

Mrs. Smith was in the kitchen and she was badly frightened when Woods opened the door and fell into the room with blood pouring in every direction. In his walk to the house a trail of blood had been left behind. On account of the great amount of blood lost by Woods it was supposed that he had bled to death and all who examined the body declared that life was extinct. The Warfield ambulance was called and the body was removed to the Warfield undertaking establishment.

Woods still remains in a serious condition and death may finally result. He is very weak and the attending physician expresses grave fears for his recovery. The injured man remains in the undertaking establishment being in too serious a condition to be moved.
